BAPTISTS IN COUNCIL

NINTH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE SOUTHERN NEW YORK ASSOCIATION-REV. S. ALMAN ON THE CONVERSION OF THE JEWS.

The ninth annual meeting of the Southern New fork Baptist Association, composed of ministers and churches of this city, Staten Islan I, Rockland and Westehester counties, and one church at Greenwich, Conn., opened yesterday. There are 57 churches, 45 pastors, 15 ministers not pastors, 17 licentiates and a membership of nearly fourteen thousand souls represented in the association. The following officers were elected :- Moderator, Rev. D. B. Jutten; clerks, Rev. C. C. Norton, and Rev. J. J. Browner; treasurer, R. G. Cornell; corresponding secretary, S. T. Hillman. Letters from the churches showed a prosperous spiritual ondition. The Central Church, in Forty-second street, in which the Convention meets, reported an increase of ninety-five members, making a present otal of 680. The First Church, to which Dr. Thomas D. Anderson ministered for seventeen years, has declined in membership from 517 to 465. The Bouth Church, having united with Plymouth Church, reports 442 members. Macdougal Street Church has no pastor for a few months, but has had an adlition of six persons. Stanton Street Church has had no pastor for a few months, but has had an addition of six persons. Stanton Street Church has worshipped for some time in Association Hall, and its membership has been slightly reduced. Fifth Avenue Church, 688 members; Tabernacle, 622; Sixteenth Street, 615; Calvary, 817 members, an increase of 32, its benevolent contributions exceeded $39,000, including $18,000 for ducation and nearly $8,000 for missions. Hastings, N. Y., having no pastor, lost I7 members, and reports 130. The Central Park Church has 348. The Pilgrim Church has called Mr. Cross to be its pastor. Mariners' Harbor (S. I.) Church reported 181 members. Reports from the churches will be continued at the session to-day.

THE CONVENSION OF THE JEWS FORFTOLD.
In the evening the Convention listened to a sermon by the Rev. Samuel Alman on "The Conversion of the Jews." Mr. Alman is a Christian Israelite. His remarks were based on Romans, xi., 1-33, and in opening he said that during the 142 years' history of the old and present Baptist Association of New York a son of Abraham has never preached for the body before. For the Jews some of the choicest promises of the Gospel are reserved. And yet, looking at their united rejection of Christianity, it will naturally be asked, "Can those dry bones live?" But in the light of inspiration their recovery is not only possible, but certain. A wonderful impulse will be given to every part of the Christian Church by their conversion. Every one of these propositions was well sustained by Scripture prophecies and declarations. Mr. Alman referred to the great age of the Jewish nation. The oldes of the Hyramids, he thought, was probably their work, and on the tombs of smeint Thebes may be seen the familiar physiognomy of the Hebrew. The old empires which oppressed the chosen people have fallen; yet the Jew remains like a gair stream flowing on through the see of nations, but not uniting with them. The conversion of $0.000 Jews on the day of Pentecost, he remarked, was the miracle of the Christian economy. But a great

BENEDICT ARNOLD'S SERVICES.

A stated meeting of the New York Historical clety was held last evening at the Library in Secand avenue, corner of Eleventh street. The President, Mr. William Depeyster, called the meeting to order, and the Secretary, Mr. Andrew Warner, read the minutes of the previous meeting. Mr. Lansing. the librarian, read a paper acknowledging donations from several individuals and societies. Mr. Isaac N. Arnold, of Chicago, the speaker of the evening, was en introduced to the meeting. He read a paper

Arnold, of Chicago, the speaker of the evening, was then introduced to the meeting. He read a paper entitled, "The Campaign Against Burgoyne in 1777 and who led the American troops to victory." He spoke of Benedict Arnold's career as a soldier, his courage and boldness, and the many battles he had fought in the American service, and how the Continental Congress, sitting at Philadelphia, refused to promote him, although advised to do so by General Washington himself. He quoted from several letters of Washington, who spoke in the highest terms of praise of Arnold. The speaker showed from letters and documents that General lates was not entitled to the great battle which ded to the fate of Burgoyne at Sarstoga on the 19th of October, 1777. During the early part of the summer of 1777 an army of 10,000 men, British and German troops, Canadians and Indians was fitted out in Canada for the invasion of the United States. The design of Burgoyne was to effect a junction of his own army with another from New York, and thus cut off Washington's commucations with the Eastern States. Burgoyne had previously sent a detachment under Colonel St. Leger to capture Fort Schuyler. The speaker described how General Herkimer was killed and how Colonel St. Leger abundoned the siege of Fort Schuyler. He described the position of both the armies on the 19th October, and contended that to Arnold was due all the glory of that important battle. And, he said, although nothing could excase or condone his treason, yet, if he had died at that moment, whon he was wounded fighting for his country, his name would descend to ruture generations as that of a hero and the savior of his country.

AFTER A THREE YEARS' SEARCE

Somewhat over three years ago three young me ar that place and returning, under the influence liquor, attacked a gentleman and young lady, wh e also on their way from the picnic, in a buggy The horse was stopped and the occupants being con pelled to leave the vehicle, both were robbed pelled to leave the vehicle, both were robbed of their money and valuables. The young lady was then outraged by the three ruffians and the gentleman beaten so badly that for some time his life was despaired of. The perpetrators of the outrage fled and were not seen again. The young lady had, however, recognized all three of them, as the robbery was committed in the early evening. Detectives were at once set at work, but until last Monday their efforts proved futile. On that day they succeeded in arresting John Youmans, its claimed, verified the astatements made by the young lady, and added that another of the party, Michael Connoily, was at present employed in Paterson, N. J. Word was at once sent to the police authorities at Paterson, who yesterday morning arrested the man at his place of employment—the Rogers Locomotive Works. He had assumed the name of Charles O'Donnell and had resided for some months in Paterson. He was taken to Newton, the county seat of Sussex county, by the authorities. The third one of the party, named O'Hara, is still at large, and no clew to his whereabouts has so far been obtained.

HOMEOPATHIC COLLEGE.

The opening exercises of the New York Homeopathic Medical College took place at the college building, Third avenue and Twenty-third street, were present and participated in the opening exer. cises, which were begun by an address by Br. J. W. Dowling, Dean of the Faculty. He congratulated the college and the faculty on the increase in the number of students and the thoroughness of the course of study, and, after offering some friendly counsel to the new students, many of them strangers in the city, he introduced the orator of the evening, Mr. Delavan C. Scofield, Freeddent of the New York Educational Society. Mr. Scofield began his address by saying that the medical profession is the most arduous of all callings. It employs many of the noblest minds of the age and has pushed its investigations into the domains of truth, until the anatomy of the human body has been made plain and ten thomsand forms of disease have been detected, classified and catalogued. The speaker advised the students to work without caring to save too much vital force. The man who works so as not to hurt himself seldom accomplishes much. In the course of his address Mr. Scofield touched on many themes, medicine, materialism, evolution and education, and was attentively listened to throughout. A number of distinguished gentlemen, besides the faculty, including Mr. George W. Clarke, the Secretary of the Board of Trustees, occupied seats on the piatform, and there were many ladies in the audience. cises, which were begun by an address by

THE HERALD'S SUNDAY EDITIONS.

[From the Hartford Daily Times.] In this age and land of newspaper predominance it is worth while to note the more striking manifes tations of the various phases and departments of journalism. The business department of a its machinery in a great factory, is the basis and motor which carries the whole establishment. A look at one of the regular Sunday editions of the New York Herald is in some sense as interesting, and reveals as distinctive a feature of American live and productions as a view of Niagara, or of Chicago, or of the Mammoth Cave. On Sunday, Septomber 28, the Herald's edition rose to the great total of 150,000 copies, largely owing to the interest that was felt in the conclusion of the international walking match. Every Sunday now the Herald prints a quintuple sheet, of twenty pages, to accommodate the rush of advertisers. These pour in on Saturday nights in such crowds that the services of one or more policemen are required to regulate the rush to the advertising counters. The edition of Sunday, October 5, consisted of twenty pages, in which there were seventy-six columns of advertisements! This is an unmistakable evidence of the revival of business.

CUSTOM HOUSE ANNOYANCES.

[From the Hartford (Conn.) Courant, Oct. 7.] A few recent cases have called attention anew to some of the evils and annoyances connected with the inspection of baggage at the New York Custom House. A man or woman of ordinarily respectable and honest appearance may go around the world having his baggage inspected at every frontier, without being subjected to any positive hardships until he tries once jected to any positive hardships until he tries once more to enter his native land. Then he may fall upon a politic and intelligent official, who has sense to discriminate and would not mistake an honest citizen returning from his travels for a professional smuggler; or he may find himself in the hands of a rude and ignorant individual who having the power will put him to several hours of most provoking delay and inconvenience. Trunks which have been packed with the utmost care, every niche filled with some little souvenir, will be thrown open and the contents spread upon the wharf for the public gaze, and usually to the destruction or damage of some fragile but valued trifle. Especial prominence is given to the case of the wife and daughter of a New York gentleman who were subject to unusual treatment on their arrival by the Britannic last Saturday. Not only were every piece of baggage minutely searched but the person of the ladies themselves, as well as those of the husband and a sister who had gone to the wharf to welcome their relatives. It is hardly possible that such a course could have been authorized or allowed had there not been some decidedly suspicious circumstance connected with the case. But we happen to know of another party on the same steamer which was also greatly annoyed, although their complaints have not been made public. A gentleman returning with his two daughters, after an extended tour, was detained for several hours in order that the inspector might satisfy himself that they were not villanous smugglers. Trunks which had been packed most carefully were badly demoralized, small boxes broken, dresses crushed, and, in short, everything done that would wring the young female heart with anguish, all to find that the party were as honest as they appeared to be. There ought to be some method devised of preventing such annoyances without the necessity of wholesale bribery. The government has a well paid force of detectives, who ought to be able to decide with some approach to accuracy, who are more to enter his native land. Then he may fall
